

technical writer | ENEA Global Delivery Center

Technical writer (ID:109)

Want to shape the future? Join our team, make a real impact

Location: Bucharest

Job Type:

Division: R&D

Level of experience:

Number of positions: 1

Job description

Main Purpose of the job

- Maintain and update the existing documentation files
- Develop documentation tool chain
- Develop documentation process

Drive documentation process improvements within R&D organization.

About the project

OSE/OSEck and Linux are the Enea offering for the embedded world, especially for the telecom market.

Responsibilities

- Write manuals in cooperation with development teams
- Design and implement the layout and format of manuals in cooperation with Marketing
- Develop and maintain style guides and other instructions that the development teams need
- To continuously take part in the improvement of the documentation processes and tools/tool chains

Requirements

- Master of Science in engineering or equivalent experience. At least three years of experience as a technical writer in product development. Specifically have experience in the following areas:
- Writing technical texts in English
- Docbook, XML
- It is an advantage if he/she also have experience in:

- C programming
- OSE development and application development for OSE
- GIT, Clear Case and Subversion

Benefits

- An inspiring environment alongside global teams of professionals within our R&D Center;
- Opportunity to extend your competencies to keep up with industry dynamics and access top technologies and training for using them in various projects;
- Team buildings and on-premises relaxing activities (darts, pool);
- Flexible working schedule for an excellent work – life balance;
- Motivating salary package and medical insurance.

Please forward your resume with covering letter to careers@enea.com or complete the form "Apply for this job"!