

Technical Writer la Salus Controls Romania - BestJobs

SALUS Controls requires a Technical Writer to create all instruction manuals for our fast growing company which is launching in average 20 new products per year.

The Technical Writer will be responsible for creating and writing various types of user documentation, including how-to guides, references, manuals, cheat sheets, operating instructions, or “frequently asked questions” pages to help technical support staff, consumers, and other users within a company or an industry.

To work alongside our technical team in EU and Hong Kong, this person will be responsible for ensuring the quality of our instruction manuals equals the quality of our products. Continual improvement and a strive for the best is always at the heart of SALUS and a quality instruction manual proves highly important when selling to retail and professional markets.

Responsibilities will include:

- understanding the technology and applications for which documentation is to be prepared;
- organize and write supporting documents for products
- collaborating with developers and managers to clarify technical issues;
- organizing information according to the user's needs;
- writing and editing;

The right candidate must have done similar role in previous employment, but in the HVAC industry is not essential.

A competitive salary as well as other benefits apply with this role .